2013/2014 Flax Sample Testing Program Approved Labs and Test Submission Forms

As of September 1, 2010, any flax entering the commercial grain handling system will be subjected to more rigorous testing for the presence of CDC Triffid than was previously required. The list of approved labs for Triffid testing as well as laboratory submission forms is shown below. Each of the labs has successfully completed proficiency testing conducted by the Canadian Grain Commission.

Sample Submission To Approved Laboratories of Flax Samples For Triffid Testing

One frequently asked question is: How many bushels can be sampled for one 2 kg sample for submission to an approved laboratory? It is recommended that one sample can cover up to 5000 bushels if the crop was seeded from the same seed source and the entire field has the same recent cropping history. As has been previously stated the quality of the sample is reliant upon sound sampling techniques.

Flax Producers: List Variety Name on Sampling Form

Growers are being advised that it is important to list the variety name on the sample submission form so that it will be possible to ensure the most complete information for Canada's flax supply.

For further information, please contact William Hill, Flax Council of Canada, (204) 982-2115; Email: hillw@flaxcouncil.ca

IMPORTANT- Some flax buyers will only be accepting test results from certain labs.

The following companies will only accept results from labs as listed below. This list may be modified. Please check this website (www.flaxcouncil.ca) regularly for updates.
